2018 NATIONAL SHOW

JUDGE: QIANG HUANG

May is our last meeting until NOAA disbands for the summer —BUT, please remember that the deadline for entries to our NATIONAL SHOW is August 10th. Make notes of these dates:

August 10, 2018: Deadline for entries (via Show Submit)

October 6, 2018: Opening Reception for the show which will be displayed at New Orleans Academy of Fine Art on Magazine Street, New Orleans.

There is a workshop being offered with Qiang Huang, (pronounced Chong Wong) at Lakeside Presbyterian Church on October 3rd through 5th. Space is limited. Please contact Darlene Johnson to secure your space: (504) 289-7117

$295.00 for members

This is NOAA's 22nd National Show. Brenda Delle has worked tirelessly this year as the show chairperson, and we cannot thank her enough. Please paint, paint, paint, and be mindful of the admission deadline.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE: BEVERLY BOULET

Hello everyone.

It's April, and time for another election. Come out and vote.

The slate of officers was announced at last month's meeting, and next month we will have the Spring Luncheon, and the installation of officers.

Thanks, all who painted artwork last month, for the 12x12xhand show, and those who came to the receptions. The location for the show, Art Klub, is offering a venue to artists of all media... dance, theater, costuming, fine art, music, spoken word, and sculpture. I wish Reese success as she continues to strive to be a hub for the arts in New Orleans.

We are all hoping for wonderful Spring weather for the Pirates Alley Art Show. Wanda McKinney has been planning it for a year.

It has been fun bringing in guest speakers and demonstrators for the last two years. Our members Merle Van, Rhonda Craven and Peggy Bergeron let us have a glimpse at the way they create art in their studios. Bob Graham painted an oil portrait in an hour, and Andrew Wilkie discussed caricatures, and drew some of our members and guests. Joan DiGradi shared tips for watercolors, Laura Hawbaker gave a power point demo on photographing art, and Ben Benson delighted us with stories while painting a picture of his cocker spaniel. Elaine Samuels gave a lot of helpful hints, and told colorful French Quarter tales while she demonstrated painting with a palette knife. Art consultant Randy Jackson gave insight into art sales and gallery contracts, and last month we all fingerpainted. Hope you enjoyed it/them as much as I did.

A lot of volunteers took on jobs big and small. Palmer Park is ongoing, and runs smoothly, thanks to Joyce, Terry, and Gilda., The workshop committee presented wonderful instructors, Paint outs and museum tours, the Pirates Alley Art Show, members shows and the national show... all are dependent on committee chairs and volunteers who give a lot of dedicated time and energy to the association. Please consider volunteering next year.

All of the officers and board members, also, are to be commended for all that they do. From manning the entrance table during our meetings to making coffee, and chairing, and serving on committees they made everything come together..

I am proud to have been president of the New Orleans Art Association, and wish the incoming president all the best in the coming year,

Beverly
